I want to help the police to reduce the number of traffic violations in Indonesia. Because many people are not aware of the traffic rules on the road, I want to make people aware of the importance of obeying the rules on the road. Rules are made solely so that people can be protected or safe from traffic accidents. Examples of rules that are often violated include not wearing a helmet when driving a motorcycle, driving with an age that is not legal. Instead of punishing traffic violators, I have a suggestion to reward people who obey traffic rules, such as getting a letter of commendation for obeying traffic rules, or getting points, so that the points can be exchanged for various prizes such as movie tickets etc. The fees are collected from violators who receive fines. An example of a simple activity is when we are at home, our parents tell us to do home activities such as sweeping, then if we have done it we will get a reward such as pocket money.
